Tim's military career spanned over 27 years. In that time, he worked his way up from a Morse code radio operator in Special Forces, Republic of Vietnam, to eventually become the Battalion Sergeant Major of the Communications Battalion of 82nd Airborne Division. He has a strong background in communications and multi-faceted special operations. Tim started his Emergency Management career in 1995 and is currently the Emergency Manager of Alcona and Oscoda Counties (located in northeast Michigan). Tim has been recognized by the Michigan Emergency Management Association (MEMA) as Local Coordinator of the Year, population under 50,000, in both 1999 and 2002. In 2002, MEMA also awarded him the Preparedness of the Year Award. Tim is the recipient of the Professional Emergency Manager of the Year award, 2002, presented annually by the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management Division.
